HUNGER, A GREAT PERSUADER

Germany, say first-hand observers, believes it has matched the British blockade. The strategy of cutting off supplies, first devised for use against Napoleon and used with tremendous effect against Germany in the World War, no longer is a British monopoly.

If Germany's claims are true, they signify the specter of famine is hovering over the British isles as well as over central and northern Europe. Prediction by John Cudahy, United States ambassador to Belgium, that a condition close to famine will be reached in that country by the middle of September unless supplies are sent from the United States hints at the imminence of major disaster.

Exactly what is going to happen, exactly what will be done if this or that thing does happen cannot be foretold. But this fact is vitally significant: All of Europe will look westward across the Atlantic ocean for relief if famine comes. North and South America are the keys to the solution of the world's food problem—the problem which neither the European democracies nor the dictators have solved.

Thus, the new world is automatically placed in possession of bargaining power infinitely greater than anything which belligerents can command in the way of weapons. Those who give in to their inferiority complexes and groan that the United States will have to get along with Hitlerism if the British are crushed in their last ditch stand overlook the salient fact in the international political situation—that Hitlerism and all the other isms will have to get along with Americanism or go hungry. It is entirely possible that the United States will be persuaded to send food to starving Europe, but not on a straight handout business. In the Salvation Army tradition, beneficiaries are going to have to qualify first by chopping a little wood.

TWO QUESTIONS: TWO ANSWERS

The two things which bother anti-conscriptionists most, according to what they say, are:

1. It is un-American to have conscription in peacetime.

2. Therefore, why have conscription, who should know a great deal about such matters, why they are wrong, but someone has to tell them.

1. It is not un-American to have conscription. This country hasn't drafted men for military service, except in case of war, because it never before faced such a threat as total, mechanized warfare waged at high speed. It does face such a threat now. If it's un-American to be prepared to survive, then conscription is un-American. In the meantime, not having conscription continues to be decidedly unhealthy, which is something to worry about too.

2. Only reason in the world for having conscription, which every sensible person admits would be a terrific pain in the neck, is to make sure that Uncle Sam still has a neck to have a pain in. The same persons who are against it as a peacetime measure readily concede it would be imperative in wartime. Perhaps they should ask some young men from 21 to 31, or whatever the service age span turns out to be, which they'd prefer: To be prepared to do what they may have to do, or to have to do it without any preparation. To oppose conscription under present conditions is to oppose a measure that protects the lives of the men who may have to defend the United States.

THEY COME AND GO

While some of the James A. Farley Admiralty societies which have been springing up since the third term split are phony, the fact is the New Deal without Farley is going to be like a two-cylinder engine with one sparkplug missing. Mr. Roosevelt can't cover up the loss of his postmaster general.

When the man who master-minded him to his first presidential nomination walks out of the party chairmanship Aug. 17 and the postmaster generalship Aug. 31, the President will lose one of three members of his cabinet who gained stature after appointment. Henry A. Wallace is one of the others; Mr. Wallace also is expected to leave the cabinet as soon as he begins to campaign as the President's running mate. Cordell Hull is the third.

The original cabinet contained Mr. Hull, William H. Woodin, George H. Dern, Homer S. Cummings, Mr. Farley, Claude A. Swanson, Harold Ickes, Mr. Wallace, Daniel C. Roper, Frances Perkins, Henry Morgenthau Jr. succeeded Mr. Woodin upon his death. Harry H. Woodring succeeded Mr. Dern and in turn was succeeded by Henry L. Stimson. Mr. Cummings gave way to Frank Murphy, who was succeeded by Robert H. Jackson. Mr. Swanson, who had been in poor health from the outset of his term, died and was succeeded by Charles Edison after an interim in which the post was vacant. Mr. Edison has been succeeded by Frank Knox. Mr. Roper was succeeded by Harry Hopkins, now rumored to be favored for the job of master-minded the New Deal to victory in 1940.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, August 11

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds testimonies of much liveliness, especially in affairs of youth and those romantically inclined. Both may be subject to sudden events or casualties demanding alertness, self-composure, quick action. With discretion all may be well and an extremely pleasant day enjoyed, particularly in connection with groups of a social or humanitarian character.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively and generally pleasant year, although there is some hint of danger or unexpected events born of rash or uncontrollable motion or excitement. Such symbols spell crashes of one kind or another. There should be much benefit in working with groups of broad scope and welfare organizations. There should be profitable short journeys.

A child born on this day may be intellectually brilliant, with keen insight and much versatility. It may be rash, reckless and adventurous.

For Monday, August 12

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a progressive and productive day, with promise of promotion, favors, and the attainment of high ambitions at the hands of superiors, those in authority and in financial standing. These should be sought by well-directed effort but with precaution in handling all writings and documents which may be detrimental if not properly preserved.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of progress and prosperity, with preferment, promotion and favors from those in prestige and position. There is augury for the attainment of very high goals, with much pleasure and gratification. Read papers and documents cautiously. Beware extravagance and also litigation.

A child born on this day may have much capacity for reaching high places in life, being favored by those in power. It will likely be genial, generous and popular.

A news item says: "The Franco government announced that it owes Italy 5,000,000,000 lire (about $250,000,000) for aid delivered during the Spanish Civil War and that it also owes a debt to Germany the amount of which was not specified." Hitler will specify.

That Kentucky primary election certainly was unique with one Democratic candidate leading seven-to-one, a Republican candidate twelve-to-one, and no shootings.

Just tax. One that soaks only one voter in 50. Unreasonable and outrageous tax: The same one if it hits everybody.

Hope is what makes a man drive around the block three times trying to find a place to park.

HE AND HIS SHADOW

Ode To Refrigeration

Modern Way of Life Much More Comfortable

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

IN OUR American climate the invention of the refrigerator was inevitable. It seems astonishing that our grandfathers endured existence in our summers without screens electric fans, soft shirts, summer clothing of any kind, to say nothing of automobiles and air conditioning units.

Liquids should be covered in the electric type refrigerator and cheese, bottled ham and other foods, which dry out easily should be wrapped in wax paper. Berries keep better if placed unwashed on a flat tray without covering. Meats should not be washed before being refrigerated. A good refrigerator not only keeps food preserved with a low bacterial count, but also removes odors.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

First aid test for vacationists. (Answers later in next week's articles.)

Suppose you enter a filling station or restaurant and find a man lying on the floor too weak to move, with white clammy skin and feeble pulse and breathing. Will you give him a stimulant? Cover him with a blanket? Use artificial respiration? Put ice on his head? or what?

If you are the first person to arrive at the scene of an automobile wreck, and find the driver thrown from the car and unable to move on account of pain in the back what injury will you suspect? What will you do for the patient? If a child comes to you rubbing his eye and says the wind blew something in it, will you tell him to rub towards the nose or away from it? Rub the other eye? If you get a cut or bruise what treatment will you give? Where are the two places on the body where boils are most dangerous?

Vacation Diet For Underweights

With a balanced, full diet, adequate in respect to vitamins, protein and minerals, studies on a group of underweights over a period of eleven weeks showed an average weight gain of 2 pounds per week. The underweight who is trying to gain should slow up on all tiring exercises and learn to relax sleep more at night. Ride rather than walk and eat more food. The groups of foods to emphasize are (1) meats, milk and eggs, (2) fruits and vegetables, some uncooked, (3) fats, cream, butter, salad dressings, gravies, (4) sweets, desserts, candies, cakes.

Sample Diet
Breakfast: Fruit, cereal with cream; lamb chop with bacon; toast and butter; coffee with cream.
Lunch: Bottle of beer, omelette.

Sounds Fishy?

SALISBURY, Md.—Thousands of fish died in the Upper Potomac river and irate sportsmen demanded an autopsy.

"They drowned," said Dr. Seth H. Hurdle, county health officer acting as coroner.

Foreign matter and summer heat reduced the oxygen in the stream below the life sustaining requirement.

Red-Headed Ghost

GRAND ISLAND, Neb.—Things are peaceful at the Harry Paulsen home now after a three-day seige of ghostly rapping in the basement.

Paulsen finally traced the sounds to the furnace. Fluttering around inside was a woodpecker which apparently had mistaken the chimney for a hollow tree.

Low Cost Home Loans

There are many elements of cost that enter into a home loan. The rate of interest is one of these but it is only one. The bonus or commission . . . the cost of renewals or extensions . . . all these add to the cost of home financing. The rate alone does not indicate the total cost.

When you borrow from The Home you pay only the necessary costs of securing your loan . . . you get a mortgage repayable over a period sufficiently long to enable you to meet the payments, but not so extended as to make your total interest cost exorbitant. You get a rate of interest that is fair and reasonable.

There's more to home financing than the rate of interest. In many instances what appear to be low rates prove to be the most expensive.

Lending officers at THE HOME welcome the opportunity to explain our plan of home financing without cost or obligation to you.

The Sunday school discussion will center around the following theme:

"God has not left Himself without witness concerning His presence and work in the world. Every careful observer cannot help but be conscious of the presence of God in the beautiful and intricate world of nature. If people would turn their faces to the skies and see the wonderful display of the stars, which we are told are planets and worlds larger than our own, then the greatness and infinite power of God will be appreciated. God has also revealed Himself in Holy Scriptures. There is one book above all others. This unique book is the Holy Bible. Herein we find that God has recorded through the sacred writers, His message to the world and knowledge about Himself. No one need to walk in the path of atheism and doubt, if he allows the evidence of the everyday experience present to him the facts about God."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers; for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?" (II Corinthians 6:14).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Good never enters into evil, the unlimited into the limited, the eternal into the temporal, nor the immortal into mortality. With but seven dissenting votes, the U. Leetonia Wins Sixth In Row To Retain Lead In Class A

Merchants Blank Salem Saxons To Continue On Top In Softball League

Brudery Allows Only Four Hits In Pitching Leetonia Team To Victory; National Sanitary Returns To Win Column

The Leetonia Merchants remained in the driver's seat in the second half race of the Class A softball league last evening, posting their sixth straight victory by shutting out the Salem Saxons, 10 to 0.

The top-ranking Leetonia club is the only unbeaten team in the Class A circuit's second half campaign.

Kenny Brudery pitched the Merchants to their sixth straight win, shutting out the Saxons on a four-hit performance.

Supporting Brudery's splendid pitching, the Leetonia club slapped Pitches Al Linder and Bill Pauline of the Saxons for 10 safe blows to score three runs in the first inning, three in the fourth, two in the fifth, one in the sixth and one in the seventh. Seven errors by the Saxons aided Leetonia scoring.

Mike Mancuso and Art Nicolette each hit safely twice to lead the Leetonia attack. Mancuso had two for two, and Nicolette two for three.

The defeat was the fourth the Saxons have suffered in six second-half games.

Returning to the win column after suffering their first defeat of the second half last Wednesday, the National Sanitary, first-half champion of the Class A circuit, topped the Trades Class, 3 to 1.

The victory kept the Sanitary within firing range of first place if the Leetonia club should lose in one of its five remaining games. The Leetonia and Sanitary clubs are scheduled to meet next Wednesday night.

The Sanitary bunched all of its three runs in the sixth inning to defeat the Trades Class which held the lead for a short time on the strength of one run in the fifth frame.

Fitcher Marshall Sutherland allowed the Sanitary eight hits, while Bob Jeffries, pitching for the Sanitary, gave up six safe blows.

The Trinity Lutherans protected their first place position in the Church league's third-round race by spanking the Emmanuel, 12 to 9 for their fourth straight win.

The Trinity club scored in every inning but the third on a 13-hit attack.

Remaining tied for second place the Baptists defeated the Christians, 5 to 2, in the other Church league game.

CLEVELAND OUT TO EVEN SCORE WITH BROWNIES

Tribe Again Loses Opportunity To Take Lead In League Race

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10.—There are plenty of pitfalls along the pennant stretch drive and the Cleveland Indians are encountering their full share of them.

The Tribe dropped a 4 to 3 decision to St. Louis last night as Pitcher Mel Harder weakened after shutting out the Browns for six innings. The loss deprived the Indians of a chance to take over first place, and left them a half-game behind Detroit as the Tigers met defeat in Chicago.

The last doubleheader on Cleveland's schedule, barring future postponements, offers a chance today to average two defeats in three contests played out of the six-game St. Louis series. Johnny Allen and Al Milnar were nominated to work on the Indian mound against Bob Harris and Willis Hudlin, former Redman, for the Browns.

Harder, who showed signs of having reached his customary late season form in two previous starts, yielded only two hits in the early innings, then allowed six more before Harry Eisenstat took over in the ninth.

Judith Homers

After the Browns tallied their first run in the seventh, Walter Judith homered in the eighth with one on to knot the score at 3-3. In the ninth, Harold Clift's bouncer slithered off Ken Keltner's glove for a double and Eisenstat went to the mound. Don Heffner got a single when Keltner slipped and fell on the wet grass as he fielded his bunt, and another single by Don Swift enabled Clift to cross the plate with the winning run before a single man was out.

Keltner paced the Tribe's attack, starting the scoring in the fifth. He singled, stole second and then raced home on Beau Bell's one-base hit.

In the seventh Keltner started a two-run rally with a double and took third as Ray Mack kept out of the last nine games by a side injury, went out on a foul fly. The third-sacker scored on Johnny Bernardino's wild throw. Rolfe Hemmley tripped and Harder singled to drive in the other run.

Cleveland clubbed Johnny Whitehead, St. Louis' starter, for eight safe blows in as many innings and got another off Rexie Lawson, the winner.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Just to save you a lot of worrying here are football's probable kinkups: East-Cornell and Fordham; southwest-Texas A&M and S. M. U.; Big Six-Nebraska; north central-North Dakota; southeastern-Alabama and Tennessee; southern-Duke; Big Seven-Colorado; Rocky mountain-Colorado Mines.... There'll be 44 huskies on hand when Jim Yeager of Iowa State calls the grid roll on what looks like one of his best teams.... Monday is red letter day down in Gren-wich village.

"Mayer" Jimmy Kelly is tossing his annual party for Joe DiMag, with every kid in town hoping to get an autographed ball—or a handshake....

It Can Happen to the Injuns

Every unassisted triple play has been made by, or against, Cleveland. In 1909 Neal Ball, Injun shortstop, turned the trick against Boston. In 1923 George Burns, Cleveland first sacker, made one against Boston, and in 1927 Johnny Neun, Detroit first baseman, made a tripler against Cleveland. And the only unassisted triple play ever made in a world series was turned in by Bill Wambam, Cleveland second baseman against the Dodgers in 1920.

Theatre Attractions

Charles Boyer and Bette Davis in a scene from "All This and Heaven Too" at the State Sunday through Tuesday.

Best selling novels continue to become the recent great films with the production of Rachel Field's successful "All This and Heaven Too," which brings Bette Davis and Charles Boyer to the screen at the State Sunday through Tuesday.

A splendid supporting cast includes Barbara O'Neill, Jeffrey Lynn, Virginia Weidler, Walter Hampden, Henry Daniell, Harry Davenport, Janet Beecher, June Lockhart and Ann Gillis.

Story of Great Aunt

The story of Rachel Field's own great aunt, a little French governess, it is also the story of the celebrated Duc de Praslin and his neurotic, wildly passionate Corsican wife and their children.

The quiet little governess, seemingly destined for a life of spinsterhood, in 1841 entered the employ of the Duc and his wife, found herself in the storm center of a Parisian murder scandal which shook two continents a century ago.

Other pictures at the State during the week include:

Wednesday and Thursday—"We Who Are Young," featuring Lana Turner in her first dramatic role, with John Shelton, Gene Lockhart, Henry Armetta and Grant Mitchell.

Friday and Saturday—"Turnabout," amusing story of two couples, husbands and wives, who exchange places, fathers assuming the duties of motherhood and mothers becoming the "men" of the families. The cast features Adolphe Menjou, Carole Landis, John Hubbard, Verree Teasdale, William Gargan and Mary Astor.

Concluding the night is "Sporting Blood" with Robert Young, Maureen O'Sullivan, Lewis Stone and William Gargan.

At the Grand

A double bill at the Grand Sunday only includes: "La Conga Nights" with Hugh Herbert, Constance Moore and Dennis O'Keefe, and "Enemy Agent," Richard Cromwell, Helen Vinson, Robert Armstrong and Jack LaRue.

Wednesday only at the Grand is a double feature program: "Grand Ole Opry," featuring the Weaver Brothers and Elvira with Lois Ransom, Allan Lane and Henry Kolker; and "Dr. Christian Meets the Women" with Dorothy Lovett, Edna Kennedy, Rod LaRocque and Frank Albertson supporting Jean Harlow as the "doctor."

Friday and Saturday's feature is "The Ranger and the Lady," a Roy Rogers western with Jacqueline Wells, Harry Woods, Henry Brandon and George Hayes.

At the Grand for the last times tonight are the Three Mesquiteers, Bob Livingston, Raymond Hutton, Duncan Renaldo, Rosella Town and Sammie McKim, in "Rocky Mountain Rangers."

FRENCH TO ACT ON "WAR GUILT"

Sacrifices Are Demanded As Result of Nazi Conquest

Britain exerted great pressure—as the did—on France's foreign policy. Much blame for France's present plight has been heaped upon tall, black-eyed Leon Blum, Socialist leader whose "new deal" government for France in 1933 ended in failure. Blum introduced the 40-hour work week—preluded by a vast series of stay-in strikes. He also obtained wage increases and paid vacations for workers and nationalized the armament industries.

Plamed For Lack of Guns

Then hailed as protector of the working man for his reforms, Blum now is branded by a rightist-ruled people as largely responsible for France's failure to speed up her gun output.

Throughout France's bitter pre-war political turmoil, Marshal Poincaré, the aged hero of Verdun, remained mostly aloof. Now and then he cried for "national reconciliation," but the few who heard him dismissed him as politically insignificant.

He recently boiled down the reasons for France's defeat thus: "Too few children, too few arms, too few allies; since victory the spirit of pleasure has prevailed over the spirit of sacrifice."

Poincaré has designated Pierre Laval as his successor in building the new France—a France dedicated to increased birth rates, partial prohibition, youth camps, alcoholism from Britain, and perhaps one-party rule. All the reforms thus far announced parallel those of the axis powers.

Not much was heard from Laval during these last few pre-war years. The son of an Auvergne butcher, he began life as a Socialist, but moved steadily toward the right. In the old days he had close connections with the proletariat; was elected mayor time after time in the Communist stronghold of Aubervilliers suburb of Paris.

Known As "Fixer"

This thick-lipped, oily-black-haired successor of the aged marshal was known as a "fixer" in French parliamentary corridors. He negotiated the Franco-Soviet pact against Germany, was always a close friend of Italy and hedged on the sanctions issue over the Italo-Ethiopian war, and has been termed "too sly to trust anyone too fully."

Influential in the new Poincaré-Laval government which is pushing the trial of old leaders are Gen. Maxime Weygand, defense minister; Adrien Marquet, minister of the interior; and Jean Ybarnegaray, youth minister.

General Weygand is an ardent Catholic with royalist sympathies. Fascist forces in France have cast covetous eyes toward him as their possible white hope. It's said.

MANY NATIONS ROCKED BY WAR

Germans Report British Munitions Plants Are Blasted

Officials declared Russia's grab of Bessarabia and northern Bucovina that would have been sufficient to fill Germany's import needs.

At the same time Rumania, preparing to make axis-demanded territorial concessions to Hungary and Bulgaria, sought to smooth the way with a new series of anti-Jewish measures. They were intended to quiet the country's strongly anti-Semitic nationalists who have demanded that the government refuse to give up any territory.

With the war of aerial bombardment, argument and political maneuvering involving at least three continents, Egypt prepared to change from passive alliance with Britain to active military cooperation with the outnumbered British forces in Africa.

The press issued warnings against Italian propaganda while the armed forces stood ready to swing into action the moment Italian troops in Libya launch their anticipated drive into the land of the pharaohs.

Britain battled anew against hard German aerial blows which scattered bombs in northeast, northwest, southeast and southwest England and Wales. Casualties—"some" fatal—and damage were acknowledged, although the full scope of the raids was not made clear.

Aerial Attacks Continue

Germany now has withheld her threatened invasion past the five-day period of high summer tides, which ended last night, but aerial attacks, considered as "preparation," continue.

Tokyo newspapers saw Britain's withdrawal of troops from Shanghai as an attempt to come to an understanding with Japan before the "Battle of Britain" begins. The United States stuck by its own position in China despite the British move.

China promised to help Indo-China if Japan undermined that semi-occupied colony of France.

John Cudahy, U. S. ambassador to Belgium, as he left for home, was quoted by the London Daily Mail today as saying that he would not retract "one word" of the interview he granted this week praising the behavior of German troops occupying Belgium. Cudahy also stated that Belgium would also stand that winter if food face famine. This winter if food was not supplied by America, was repudiated by the state department and called home. His friends in Washington expect him to resign from the diplomatic service.

Nazi Boat Graces London Store
